

their Assistant Bishop. The General Convention consented to his election, and the issue of Bishops concurred in the action of the House of Deputies. The presiding bishop of the House, Right Rev. Dr. Williams, consecrated the new Bishop. The presenters are Bishops Faret and Vincent. The sermon is preached by Bishop Deane of Albany.

A WOMAN'S GREAT LEAP.

MRS. LOUISA ERNST JUMPS FROM THE BIG BRIDGE THIS MORNING.

She Is Picked Up by Green Tent, a Fisherman, Uninjured—The Attempt at Suicide Witnessed by a Number of People—The Woman Under the Hallucination That She Is Dying of the Lockjaw.

HILL a number of wagons and a great many pedestrians were crossing the St. Louis Bridge at 10 o'clock this morning a woman was seen to mount the railing between the middle pier and the east tower, on the north side, and, hesitating a moment, leap forward. Frank McGinnis, the foreman of a gang of workmen now engaged in reconstructing the bridge roadway, was not more than fifty feet from the woman when she began to climb over the railing, and cried out to her to hold on, at the same time running towards her. He was within a few feet of her when she let go. She was standing on the edge of the pedestrian's walk, which extends out for a foot or so beyond the railing. When she let go she did not attempt to leap over the telephone and electric light wires which run along the side of the bridge, and she was caught on them. The weight of her body broke one of the wires, however, and she then fell to the water, 100 feet below. She jumped feet first, but the wire over her head and she descended about fifteen feet sideways, when her clothes, acting as a sort of a parachute, straightened her up and she fell feet first, within a short distance from the water, when the power of the air being decreased she turned forward and struck the water face downwards. She could not have gone under more than five feet, for she reappeared on the surface in an instant and began to float down with the current. A great many people were looking over the railing by the time she reappeared under the water. At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

SHE GIVES HER NAME. Her name was Mrs. Louisa Ernst, and she was 35 years of age and resided at 261 Coulman avenue. Her husband's name, as she stated, was Elias Ernst. He keeps a coal yard at the above number. She said she was the mother of three children. When questioned in regard to the reasons for her attempt at suicide it was at once evident that she was under the influence of a hallucination that she was dying of the lockjaw. She said that she had neglected her family. When asked in what way she neglected them she said she also labored under the hallucination that she was going to die of lockjaw. When asked why she thought so she said she did not know, but that she had got the idea in her mind that she was and could not get rid of it. She seemed to have a great horror of being left alone and every few minutes she would get up and go to the door and look out. She said she was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

At the time that she jumped Green Tent, a fisherman who nightly puts out his trout-line above the bridge, was out in his boat engaged in hauling them in to see what the night had brought him. He was startled by the splash and turning around saw the woman floating in the water. He dropped his line as once and adjusting his oars pulled as fast as he was able towards the drowning woman. He overtook her just about twenty feet from the south side of the bridge and hauled her up in the boat. He then rowed quickly towards the shore. When with a vigorous stroke he sent his boat up into the sand there was a large number of people waiting to receive him and the unfortunate woman he had rescued. She was lying out at the boat and carried up the levee a short distance where she was laid down with her head down and her arms outstretched. She was getting the water out of her. As a matter of fact she had very little in her, and after she had lain down for a few minutes she was assisted to rise and walked up the levee. The ambulance, which had been telephoned for, had arrived by this time and she was assisted into it, placed on a stretcher and warm blankets wrapped around her. She was driven to the police station and carried into the Chief's office, where Dr. Wilhelm, after examining her, pronounced her none the worse for her great leap. She was given brandy to drink by his orders, and this revived her sufficiently to permit her to tell who she was and to furnish other information as the police requested.

WANTS A NEW JUDGE.

The Trial of the Insurance Fraud Case Will Be Postponed.

Attorney Jos. Lodge this morning filed a notice with Circuit Attorney Oliver to the effect that, on Monday morning next, he would make formal affidavit to the effect that Judge Normie was prejudiced against the defendant in the action brought by the State against Terry, with a petition that the bench be otherwise composed during the trial of such case.

The action above referred to is the famous life insurance fraud by which Robert Terry, Joseph Whitaker, August Koescher, Adolph Weber, David Goldberg, and Annie Goldberg are alleged to have attempted to swindle George Washington Council of this city out of $5,000.

The fraud as exposed about a year ago was a case of the kind which is not infrequently met with in the courts. It is a case of the kind which is not infrequently met with in the courts. It is a case of the kind which is not infrequently met with in the courts.

One of the conspirators impersonated the dying man and secured an insurance policy for $5,000 by joining George Washington Council, of which Terry, Whitaker and Koescher were prominent members. The fraud was discovered before payment was made, however, and the alleged conspirators arrested.

Terry was tried, found guilty of attempted fraud and sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary. He secured a new trial on the ground of faulty indictment. Three months ago Koescher committed suicide by hanging himself with a strong wire at his home on Easton avenue.

Judge Thomas will in all probability be called to the bench. The case was set for Monday next, but this action will necessitate a continuance.

"JASCHA, A Tale of the Number Thirteen," by W. Heimberg, and translated especially from the German, will be concluded in to-morrow's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

AMONG THE BROKERS.

An Advance in West Granite—The General Market Dull.

There was but little doing in the Mining Exchange market today. The call was one of the smallest on record. The only feature of the day was the strong feeling in West Granite, 15 being bid at the close, with none offering below $1.00. Cascade was also strong, with $1 bid and $1.00 asked.

On call Adams was 77 1/2 bid; American, $2.35 bid; Arizona, 3 asked; Aztec, 1 1/2 bid; 1 1/4 asked; Black Oak, 12 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Bremen, 10 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Cariboo, 1 bid; Cascade, 15 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Central Silver, 45 bid, 4 1/2 asked; 100 sold at 4 1/2; Cleveland, 3 bid; Cleveland, 100 sold at 4 1/2; Conception, 10 bid; Golden Era, 5 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Gold King, 2 1/2 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Granite, 10 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Granite Mountain, 3 1/2 asked; Hope, 4 1/2 bid, 4 1/2 asked; I. X. L., 5 1/2 bid, 7 1/2 asked; Ingraham, 10 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Ivanhoe, 12 1/2 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Jumbo, 1 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Keystone, 5 bid, 5 1/2 asked; La Union, 10 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Little Giant, 4 bid, 5 asked; Major Budd, 2 1/2 bid, 2 1/2 asked; Mexican, 35 bid, 2 1/2 asked; 100 sold at 2 1/2; Breckenridge, 7 1/2 asked; Montrose, 10 bid; Mountain Key, 7 1/2 bid, 8 asked; Mountain Lion, 7 1/2 bid, 8 asked; Neath, 1 1/2 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Old Colorado, 8 bid; Old Lead, 4 asked; East Murphy, 1 1/2 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Pedro, 1 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Phillips, 30 bid, 6 asked; Pine Grove, 3 bid, 3 1/2 asked; Queen of the West, 1 1/2 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Frisco, 2 1/2 bid, 2 1/2 asked; 100 sold at 2 1/2; Santa Hope, $1.07 1/2 bid, $1.10 asked; Silver Star, 30 bid, 33.00 asked; Touristette, 2 1/2 bid, 3 asked; Union Pacific, 10 bid, 1 1/2 asked; Wire Patch, 10 bid, 1 1/4 asked; Yuma, 2 1/2 bid, 30 asked.

The transactions after call were: Aztec, 300 at 1 1/2; 200 at 1 1/4; Central Silver, 1,300 at 4 1/2 and 4 1/4; Major Budd, 100 at 2 1/2; Pat Murphy, 100 at 2 1/2; Touristette, 1,000 at 3 and 3 1/4; Gold King, 100 at 2 1/2; Michael Green, 400 at 2 1/2 and 2 1/4; Mountain Key, 100 at 2 1/2. West Granite was bid $1.

Cascade sold 100 shares at $1, and was in demand at that.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

John Adams Is Under Arrest, but His Pal Is at Large.

John Adams, alias Alex Ferguson, colored, is now under arrest at the Third District Police Station, charged with robbery in the first degree. He was arrested yesterday afternoon.

Adams, a colored man, living in the rear of 1008 North High street, was assaulted on the east side of Twelfth street, between Franklin avenue and Wash streets by two colored men who pelted him with stones and threatened to hand over to them a pair of shoes and a hat which he had just purchased. Franklin, with the blood streaming down his back from a severe scalp wound which he had received, reported the matter to the officers of the Third District Station. He had recognized both of his assailants, and on his statement, Adams was taken in a short time afterward.

Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

Adams was taken in a short time afterward. Knox has not yet been apprehended. He has no settled place of abode, and has been in the habit of hanging around Twelfth and Washington streets, where he has been charged both men with robbery in the first degree.

WHERE IS LENA LONG?

HER PARENTS HAVE ASKED THE POLICE TO JOIN IN THE SEARCH.

A Mysterious Young Man With Soft Hands and Plenty of Money Has Also Disappeared After a Very Short Residence Near the Girl's Home.

RS. ROBERT B. LONG reported to the police today that her 14-year-old daughter is missing.

The Long family live at 218 Poplar street in rooms on the third floor. Robert Long is an employee of the Bridge & Tunnel Co. and works in the freight-house.

He is the stepfather of Lena Long or Helen, who died several years ago.

LENA IS 14 years old and is said to be a very pretty girl. She is well developed for a girl of her age, and was bright and winsome in her waywardness. Her mother said she was always well treated, but the girl complained that she was not permitted to go out with company of her own age.

She spent the greater part of her time in reading novels in her room, her mother said, and had frequently stated her intention of running away from home if she was not allowed to go out with company of her own age.

It is supposed that she ran away with a young man with whom she had been seen talking on the street.

This young man is a very mysterious personage, apparently. A week ago Wednesday he rented a room at 428 Sixth street south, just around the corner from where she lived. He paid for his room one week in advance, and was always quiet and appeared to be attending to his own business; whatever that was no one knew.

On Thursday morning at 10 o'clock Lena put on her little white straw hat with a black ribbon, her brown leather belt and black shoes. She wore a dark blue dress and went to the corner of Sixteenth and Olive. Miss Munger was a member of the same Sunday-school class. She did not return home that afternoon, and a little colored boy, who lives in the same block as Mr. Long came to the house and said that Lena at the Union Depot with this young man, who is supposed to have spirited her away.

Mr. and Mrs. Long at once went to the Union Depot, but were unable to find any trace of her and the young man. They were expecting that the missing girl might have returned but she had not. The police were then notified of her disappearance and the facts in connection with the case.

The colored boy said Mrs. Young was dressed in a light-colored stiff hat, blue coat and striped trousers. He was of fair complexion and had a sandy, mouse-colored hair. He was apparently about 24 years of age.

Further inquiry developed the information that on Thursday morning she was seen walking on Sixth street with this young man. She had told her mother that she had shown her a roll of bills and said he had paid her for the room in which she was staying.

Mrs. Klausman, the landlady who rented the room in which she stopped for a week, said that on Thursday morning she packed up his clothes into his valise and left it there, going away that morning. She said he was very gentlemanly and had soft hands, not like a working man. He dressed well but wore a dressy ring. She said his clothes were marked with the name Oranby.

Yesterday morning a man called at the room and said that he had been sent for the valise and was to take it to Dan Deity's saloon, where the man was waiting. But Mrs. Klausman refused to let it go and in the afternoon she was called for it and took it away, saying that his wife had come to St. Louis and that he had secured larger rooms in North St. Louis.

Mrs. Klausman also said that he had on the back of each hand a star tattooed, but one of them was quite faint as he said he had been burned off.

Mr. and Mrs. Long are heart broken over the affair, and if the young man should threaten to punish him to the fullest extent of the law if it is shown that he had any connection with the abduction of their daughter.

Maud Howe. The brilliant young writer tells whether or not she thinks women are deceitful in to-morrow's SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

CIVIL COURT NEWS. Two Divorces Suits Filed—An Interpleur in the Wormer Assignment.

Mrs. Hedwig Blank charges her husband, Joseph P. Blank, with a serious breach of his marital vows in her petition for divorce filed yesterday. She says she was married May 26, 1886, and lived with him until October 9, when she left him.

Julia Kendrick has entered a suit for divorce against her wife, Ella G. Kendrick, on the ground of desertion. They were married in New York City, and the wife is now living in Detroit, Mich.

Two TRUSTEES DECLINE. In the will of the late Virginia M. Smith, there was a clause in which the testator bequeathed $5,000 to R. L. Hutchinson in trust, the proceeds to be given to the poor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

PUBLISHED BY THE DISPATCH PUBLISHING CO.,

JOSEPH F. FULTON, President.

TERMS OF THE DAILY.

One year, postage paid, every afternoon and Sunday morning, $10.00

Six months, $6.00

By the week (delivered by carrier) 20 Cents

Sunday edition, by mail, per year, 2.00

Subscribers who fail to receive their paper regularly will confer a favor upon us by reporting the same to this office by postal card.

All business of news letters or telegrams should be addressed to the Post-Dispatch, 515 Olive street.

POSTAGE.

Entered at the Post-Office, St. Louis, Mo., as second-class matter.

POSTMASTER: Pay Copy.

Eight to sixteen pages, 1 Cent

Fifteen to thirty-two pages, 2 Cents

FOREIGN.

Daily, by mail, 1 Cent

Sunday Post-Dispatch, 3 Cents

TELEPHONE NUMBERS.

Editorial Department, 266

Business Office, 266

London Office, 22 Colquhoun Street, Charing Cross.

FAMOUS ST. LOUISANS.

SOME OF OUR CITY'S

SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

EITHER BY

BIRTH OR ADOPTION,

WHO HAVE

BECOME FAMOUS.

SEE TO-MORROW'S

SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1898.

AMUSEMENTS TO-NIGHT.

OLYMPIA—"The Corsair."

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE—"Featherbrass."

PEOPLES—"The Two Macs Specialty Co."

FORD—"A Parlor Match."

STANDARD—"Austin's Australian Novelty Co."

EXHIBITION—Open from 9 a. m. to 10:30 p. m.

MATINEES TO-MORROW.

FORD—"Lights and Shadows."

STANDARD—"The Walls of New York."

Subscribers receiving the POST-DISPATCH

by carrier will confer a favor by reporting to this office any lateness in the delivery of their papers, or any irregularity or other cause of complaint, in order that the same may receive prompt attention.

Weather forecast for twenty-four hours, commencing at 8 a. m. to-day,

for Missouri: Light rains; slightly cooler; variable winds.

The deadly overhead wire got in its fatal work again in New York yesterday.

Human life has as little value in New York as in New Mexico.

CONNECTICUT is "the land of steady habits," and as older-drinking is one of her staidest habits, she has voted down a prohibition amendment by a large majority.

It seems that wolves are not the only

wild game brought under municipal jurisdiction by the annexation of Chicago's new territory. A cinnamon bear that had wandered into one of the older wards

of the Twenty-seventh on a foraging tour, was run down and killed by the police in a North Side street the other night.

A FINE of $50 and thirty days in jail was the too-lenient punishment inflicted by a

Buffalo court on a jurymen who wrote to the plaintiff in a suit for $7,000, saying that he would be foreman of the jury and that the plaintiff might call on him at his hotel for any help that was needed. A five-year term in the penitentiary would not be too much for a case like this.

TANNER's order that not less than $4 per month should be allowed in every case of pensionable disability has been rescinded

by Assistant Secretary Bussery, who officially declares that "It has neither the color of law nor the authority of precedent." TANNER can say the same of some of Bussery's rulings and say it with the sanction of eminent legal authorities.

Sixteen London dock companies have conceded the demand of the stevedore

strike that have discovered that their directors had been spending their surplus in riotous living. There is now a prospect that the money saved by requiring the direct-premium of 27 per cent in order to prevent a rapidly growing surplus from crushing

the life out of business.

OVERWORKED CAMPAIGNERS.

The Democratic arrangement of FOR-

AKER's policy of destroying Cincinnati's

local autonomy became very effective

when FORAKER's bossman was shown up in a letter in which his appointee as boss of the Cincinnati Board of Public Improvements, Mr. GEORGE R. TOFF, gave instructions as to the making out of gravel

bills so as to conceal his 25 per cent share

in a gravel contract.

The Republican Committee investigated

this letter and found that Mr. TOFF wrote

it, but that he was temporarily insane

from overwork at the time, and therefore the committee asked him to resign and take a rest.

To offset this, FORAKER in his speeches

and HALSTED in the Commercial-Gazette

accused the Democratic candidate, CAM-

BELL, of being peculiarly interested in a patent ballot-box when he, by request, introduced a bill in Congress relating to

it. They made a great fuss about this,

and showed a disposition to fight the campaign out on this line, claiming to have documentary proof with CAMBELL's own signature attached, which documentary proof they steadily kept concealed. But at last they were forced to take the strange course of publicly confessing that

CAMBELL's signature was forged, while they still conceal the alleged documents, as if the production thereof would involve

their own side in a still worse scandal.

It now seems to be in order for a Republican committee to sit on this case also,

and find that FORAKER and HALSTED are caught in a very bad scrape, but were insane from overwork when they fell into it. The affair is said to have caused a recently appointed smoke inspector to skip to Canada, and FORAKER's

Ohio campaign seems to be in about as bad a fix as MAHONEY's in Virginia.

A NEW YORK G. A. R. post publishes resolutions formally repudiating Senator

INGALLS' proposition that the entire wealth of the nation was saved by the Union soldiers, and that it is almost impossible to overstate the share due them

for salvage. The resolutions put the pension claim on grounds which nobody can object to when they set up disability insured in the service of the country as the only just ground for pension claims,

and there is the ring of true American manhood in the declaration that "As much patriotism may be displayed by refraining in time of peace from inflicting unnecessary burdens on the country as by

"coming to her defense in time of war."

The official announcement in their organs that the Monarchists will resume their liberty of action, simply means that they have withdrawn from their alliance

with the Boulangerists. They have captured some seats for enemies of the Republic by using BOULANGER and revision

as cats-paws, and think they have fully paid for all they got. It probably cost them more in hard cash than they will be willing to pay for similar results in the next contest, and in the new Chamber we may expect less intrigue, better defined parties and plainer sailing for the Republic as the result of the discomfiture

of an unnatural alliance between Monarchists and Radical Republicans.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD utters a rather stalwart paradox in his statement that among the 200,000,000 of people in India

where a marriage of inclination never occurs, "there are more happy marriages, more happy homes and more

"pure domestic relations than in any "other part of the world." It is hard to reconcile this with the generally received belief that the condition of women in India is surpassingly miserable and degraded. If Sir EDWIN ARNOLD is to be the contest is stubborn and resolute. Delays and defeats are inevitable, but temporary.

The advance is sure. The thousands of the church did not persuade Galilee that the earth

did not move, and the roar of the party machine and the gross violation of public policy

by the President, the Postmaster-General, by Senators and Representatives in Congress, by party committees and local leaders, all of which we have heard and even before, do not convince us that the reform sentiment of the country is not stronger every day.

What New York Thinks of Them.

From the New York Tribune.

Bishop Tuttle of Missouri is a big-boned, bigbrained and big-hearted man, who, although born and reared in this State, is a perfect type of the virtuous Western worker, carrying his him in the bosom of the mountain and prairie that is refreshing.

The Rev. R. A. Holland of St. Louis is an eloquent man, who is not afraid to say a thing

eloquent as it happens to be unpopular.

Way Editor Jones' Salary Is Small.

From the Republic.

Under our view of journalism the horse

editor is entitled to have his salary raised

at once. The Republic pays the highest salaries to those who can tell the most truth in the least space.

MEN OF MARK.

PRINCE HENRY of Battenberg has a new four-horse turnout.

A COUSIN of WILKIE Collins, Alexander Grey

by name, lives in San Francisco.

The Hon. Hannibal Hamlin has done a great

lot of parting shooting this year.

COUNT TALER, the Austrian Prime Minister,

is the Baron of Baltimore in Ireland.

A DIME Museum manager in Chicago has sent Gen. Boulanger a handsome offer.

Gov. STEPHEN LEE of Virginia is growing

so stout that he can with difficulty mount a horse now.

SECRETARY NOBLE's Washington house has oaken stairs, salmon-tint walls and everything else equally fine.

ZOLA has strict notions about the proprieties

of dress and always wears a lace-trimmed shirt

and lace cuffs when writing.

J. B. BUCK, the young man who robbed

Mrs. James Brown Foster of her diamonds in Washington, has escaped from jail at the capital.

MENDEL II., the new King of Abyssinia, is the son of a beggar woman who took his father's fancy. He is almost coal black, short and dumpy.

A SMALL picture was lately sold at the Hotel

Drouot, in Paris, for 100 francs, which, on being verified as his work by M. Meisnier, was immediately resold for 15,000 francs.

C. F. DELL of McEvoytown, Pa., has made a fortune out of a sand bank. He is the owner of the sand deposit from which the plate-glass

manufacturers of Pittsburgh draw their supplies.

ERNE E. REEDFORD, writer of "Silver Threads

Among the Gold," who begins to show some of them in his beard, gets $1,000 a year from the Ladies' Home Journal for a column a month

on fad.

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD, speaking of his personal attentions for and political hostility to Gladstone, says: "I am always attacking him and exposing his fallacies." Some would call this egoism.

ITALY has been almost devastated by the

Abyssinian Embassy bearing presents to King

Hamlet. The King of Abyssinia's brother headed the delegation, and several dignitaries accompanied him. Their appetites are enormous.

Ten of them ate thirty-seven steaks at one sitting.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD.

EX-QUEEN ISABELLA of Spain recently won

40,000 francs on a horse race.

If a girl is born in October she will be pretty and coquettish and devoted to attractive

garbure. (Old Proverb.)

The Harrison family sent no presents to

Blaine-McCormick people. This is commented upon unpleasantly in high social circles.

THEY ARE MURDERS.

Deaths From Electric Wires May

Be Punished as Such.

Legal Opinions Suggested by the Death of Lineman Feeks.

Under the Criminal Code, New York Lawyers

Declare That the Man Who Has the Fullest Control of an Electric Light Company May Be Prosecuted Criminally for Accidents Caused to Individuals by the

Wires Which Are Not Properly Protected—The Horrible Death Described—

Some Important and Sensational Statements.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The World, referring to the terrible death of Lineman Feeks, yesterday

said: "Eight citizens of New York have been killed by badly insulated electric wires within eighteen months. Seventeen have narrowly escaped death. In the Budden case it was the stringing of wires which in the case of the World's Fair, comes in contact with them. In the Budden-case the conviction was secured at and generally in the highest court of the State which affirmed the reasoning and laid down a general principle which would apply to all cases of this kind. The reasoning is this, that if you knowing that a certain element over which you have control is death-dealing, if you permit it to remain in a dangerous condition, you should not be considered manslaughter; you should be considered guilty of murder in the second degree, if you neglect and knowledge of criminality."

PROBABLY FEELS OF THE DEFENSE.

The World would the defendant be likely to set up? "The only plea that could be set up on behalf of the defendant, it is pointed out, is that the wires were not properly insulated, and that the defendant was not responsible for the

TELEGRAPH TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Oct. 12.—A very curious case is before the Montreal courts which involves a conflict of authority between the church and state. The Villa Marie Bank brought an action against the Hotel Dieu, and during the proceedings it was necessary to obtain the evidence of certain nuns belonging to the order of the Visitation.

dm., 550, J. L. Thompson & Sons, Marlton, Ill.; 50, George Allen & Son, Allarton, OXFORD DOWNS.
 Ram, 2 years old and over, 1st prem., $50.
 Ram & Harris, Stonington, Ill.; 50, J. R. &
 W. A. Shafer, Middletown, O.
 Ram 1 and under 2 years, 1st prem., $50.
 Jones & Harris, Stonington, Ill.; 50, J. R. &
 W. A. Shafer, Middletown, O.
 Ram lamb, 1st prem., $10, J. R. & W. A.

A Beautiful Present.
A picture from Heffernan's Central Art
Store, 1010 Olive street. Low prices.

advertisement in the SUNDAY

Coal Donated.
ROTA, N. D., Oct. 12.—W. C. Daniels and Talthogen of this city have donated ten tons of coal to the suffering farmers of county.

